

DIED.—In this city on Tuesday last, Mr. THOMAS McJANET, stove cutter, aged 34 years, a native of Girven, Ayrshire, Scotland.

On the same day, in this ³⁻¹²⁻⁴⁵ neighborhood, at an advanced age, Mr. JOHN CHARMAN—(better known by the name of Johnny Appleseed.)

The deceased was well known through this region by his eccentricity and the strange garb he usually wore. He followed the occupation of a nurseryman, and has been a regular visitor here for upwards of 20 years. He was a native of Pennsylvania, but we understand his home—if home he had—for some years past was in the neighborhood of Cleveland, Ohio, where he has relatives living. He is supposed to have owned considerable property, yet he denied himself almost the common necessities of life—not so much perhaps from avarice as from his peculiar notions on religious subjects. He was a follower of Swedenburgh, and devoutly believing that the more he endured in this world the less he would have to suffer and the greater would be his happiness hereafter—he submitted to severe privation—with cheerfulness and content, believing that by so doing he was securing his quarters hereafter.

In the most inclement weather he might be seen barefooted and almost naked, except when by chance he picked up articles of old clothing. Notwithstanding the privations and exposure he endured, he lived to an extreme old age, being probably not less than 80 years old at the time of his death,—though no person would have judged from his appearance that he was 60. He always carried with him some works on the doctrines of Swedenburgh, with which he was perfectly familiar, and would readily converse and argue on his tenets, evincing much shrewdness and penetration.

His death was quite sudden. We saw him in our streets only a day or two previous.
